

Nutritional Enrichment

Nutritional enrichment encourages a pup to use their natural instincts of foraging and feeding. Puzzle feeders are one example that we use occasionally. Another example is simply putting obstacles in between the pup and their food. Step stools (they can go over or under), various sized boxes (go around), etc This encourages them to search for their food and display natural feeding behaviors. This is not something we do everyday, but we do introduce it to give them some variations in feeding and keep them from getting bored with their feeding times.
